In a small town, on a cold winter night, a young innkeeper named Caleb is faced with a difficult decision.

A young couple, Mary and Joseph, have arrived in Bethlehem, seeking shelter for the night. Mary is heavily pregnant, and Joseph is desperate to find a place for her to rest. But all the inns in Bethlehem are full.

Caleb is torn. He knows that he should turn Mary and Joseph away, but he can't bear to see them suffer. So he offers them a place to stay in the stable behind the inn.

That night, Mary gives birth to a baby boy. Caleb and his wife, Ruth, help Mary and Joseph care for the baby, and they witness the birth of the Savior of the world.
