The Class Struggle: The Heart of the Manifesto

At its core, the Manifesto of the Communist Party articulates a powerful theory of class struggle. Marx and Engels argue that history is driven by the conflict between antagonistic classes: the capitalists (or bourgeoisie) who own the means of production and exploit the workers (or proletariat).

The Proletariat: The Agents of Revolution

The Manifesto places its faith in the proletariat as the agents of revolutionary change. Marx and Engels argue that the working class has the potential to overthrow capitalist rule and establish a socialist society.

To achieve this goal, the proletariat must unite and become class-conscious, recognizing their common interests and the need for collective action. The Manifesto calls for the formation of revolutionary organizations and the use of political, economic, and social struggles to challenge the existing Free Download.
